Jurying

The selection panel is made up of four prominent representatives in the art community, with one serving as an alternate. The panel selects exhibitors who best reflect creativity, quality and originality in their overall body of work.

Selection is based solely on the submitted images; high quality is recommended. An artist accepted to show may only display work reflected in the images submitted for jurying. All decisions by the panel are final. The Threefoot Festival will be limited to 50 juried artists. The next 20 artists will be put on the official waiting list and offered show positions as they become available, up to and including the day of the festival.

Prize Money & Judging

Prize money will be available for artistic awards in the eight categories. An independent juror is invited each year to evaluate the work of the artists in the festival and select Best In Show, Award of Distinction and Merit Awards. On-site awards are given for outstanding work in each category.
